We will have daily races, that will lead up to the Grand Champion on Friday. Eat breakfast each morning to cast your vote for your winning racer.

Johnny Applesseed

You might have heard of the legend of Johnny Applesseed, the man who supposedly randomly planted apple trees all over the United States in the early 1800's. John Chapman was born in 1774, at age 18 he left the family to become an apprentice nurseryman. John learned the trade of growing trees and plants. He slowly moved from Massachusetts, down through Pennsylvania, Washington DC, Virginia, into Ohio and Indiana. John would plant apple seeds behind fenced areas (nurseries), returning about once a year to check on the plants. This is how he became known as Johnny Applesseed. John would have a nearby farmer, sell the young trees to farmers heading west. At the time heading west was into Michigan, Indiana, and Minnesota.

John Chapman was a very religious man, keeping his life very simple. He wore tattered clothes, usually went barefoot even into the winter months. Story tells that once he met a farmer who had an injured horse that could no longer work, the farmer was going to have to put the horse down. John bought the horse, then bought some land nearby, letting the horse loose to eat and recuperate from an injury. When he returned 6 months later the horse was alive, healed and walking normally again. John then gave the horse to a family in need.

I am so glad that John Chapman got interested in growing apples and started apple tree nurseries. One of my favorite fruits is apples, we have so many varieties to choose from. Older varieties that we eat often are Red and Golden Delicious, now I love HoneyCrisp, Tango, Ambrosia and Pink Lady's. Worldwide over 7400 varieties of apples are grown, it would take you over 20 years to eat 1 apple of each kind.

It is Spring Time in Phoenix

Do you like baseball? My family are huge baseball fans, we love to go yell at High School games and cheer for Major League Games. My cousins get a copy of Spring Training Games, and plan when they are coming to visit. If they can arrange to come on days with night games, they can watch 4 games in a 2 day period. For 4 weeks each February and March, my house is popular with my cousins visiting and Baseball. I grew up as a Dodger fan, now we have switched allegiance to our Diamondbacks. I am looking forward to going to a few games.

We have a week off school for Spring Break this month. Yeah! I hope that you all have some exciting plans. Vacation to California? Attend Spring Training games, visit the Phoenix Zoo- I want to see the giraffes. I know let's go to the Burton Barr Library and get lots of books to read.

Even find some friends and run around outside acting crazy sounds like fun. See how many times you can twirl around before getting dizzy and falling over. Just find something fun.

Stay safe, healthy, and read a book in your spare time.
